The Int'l Fastener Giant Expands in Southeast Asia with Comprehensive Service to Create Reciprocal Values

Linkwell established in 1977 has been a major supplier of screws, nuts, washers, hardware, and other fasteners in Taiwan for the past 37 years, supplying to all manufacturing industries like machinery, automobiles & motorbikes, 3C, and construction. It provides various products with a complete range of specifications in materials like carbon steel, stainless steel, copper, aluminum, and plastic. It can supply in both standard and special specifications. In addition to large bulk packaging, it can also offer small package service as per customer's request.

Linkwell started business as a trader, but after some time the president felt "rootless" by being just a trader. As a result, the company began to build manufacturing operations in different places in different time. So far it has had offices in Taipei, Tainan, Kaohsiung, and Shanghai (China) as well as additional plants in Taiwan, China, Thailand, Malaysia, and Indonesia. The construction of another new plant in Binh Duong Province, Vietnam has also been in progress since June 2014 and will soon start making construction screws in carbon steel after March 2015.
